2008 Analysis of Use of Force Incidents: As stated, the use of force incidents in 2008 declined from the previous year by 1%. The most notable statistic provided was the significant decrease in injuries when force was utilized by officers of the department. This could be attributed to several proactive approaches such as increased training and the equipping of officers with non-lethal weapons to utilize when force has to be deployed. The training is provided during annual in-service classes where officers are provided refresher courses on the deployment of their ASP baton and roll call training where officers were instructed on how to reduce their exposure to deadly force incidents such as standing in front of a moving vehicle.

This analysis does not purport to be a scientific study; however, it was designed to provide the Chief of Police with the critical dimensions encompassing force as exercised by officers throughout our Department.
